

When His Eyes Opened

Chapter 2493

Chapter 2493

“Why don’t you continue talking?” Lucas looked at Siena with stern eyes.

After holding her breath for a few seconds, Siena continued what she said just now: “Young Master, you shouldn’t leave without saying goodbye. I saw you were not in the room this morning, so I thought something happened to you.”

Lucas: “When I left, you slept like a pig.”

Siena blushed immediately: “Didn’t you say yesterday that you would never go back to Hogan’s house? Did you forgive your father? Young Master, if I were you, I would definitely not calm down so quickly, I should stay outside for a few days before I can go home.”

Lucas: “...Who said I’m calm?”

Siena was at a loss for words.

At this time, a figure slowly walked over from the gate of the courtyard.

“Young Master, your father is here.” After Siena reminded him, she immediately returned to the kitchen with the dinner plate.

Mr. Hogan just woke up and heard that Lucas was back, so he came over to have a look.

“Lucas, it’s good that you can figure it out. I thought you went to your mother’s place!” Mr. Hogan entered the living room and took out a card from his pocket. I will send you a sum of money every month for living expenses. Also, I will find you a new school to go to school.”

Lucas took the card and held it in the palm of his hand without saying a word.

Mr. Hogan knew that he was angry, but he didn’t intend to indulge his temper.

“This is the Hogan family. If you want to integrate into this family, you must abide by the rules of this family. I am usually busy with official duties, and your stepmother manages the trivial matters at home. So you’d better not mess with your stepmother. Of course, if she does too much, you can tell me.”

After Mr. Hogan finished speaking, he left.

In the evening, Siena brings a bowl of noodles to the table.

Seeing the noodles, Lucas frowned, and asked, “Siena, what’s your surname?”

Siena was uneasy: “My mother-in-law and I are surnamed Stefanini.”

Lucas: “Siena Stefanini!”

Siena: “Young Master, I’m Siena Stefanini and my nickname is Sissy but no one calls me Sissy.”

Lucas gritted his teeth: “Don’t you want to be lazy anymore? Make me a bowl of noodles?!”

Siena sighed helplessly: “There is dog meat in the refrigerator, do you eat it? Today the kitchen only gives me dog meat. I think they did it on purpose.”

Lucas: “...”

Siena: “Young Master, if you can’t eat noodles, there are steamed buns, you can eat it.”

Lucas stood up with his fists clenched, his face livid.

Siena immediately grabbed him, “Young master, don’t be impulsive! Your father told you this morning not to mess with your mother.”

“Get out!” Lucas’s body muscles were tense, and anger was burning in his heart.

He pushed Siena away, strode into the kitchen, and took out the raw dog meat from the refrigerator.

Seeing him heading towards the main building like a gust of wind, Siena immediately ran after him.

...

Siena was still a step too late.

When she chased to the main building, Lucas had already smashed Mrs. Hogan's dinner and tried to stuff raw dog meat into Mrs. Hogan's mouth.

□ □ □